

Testimonials

"PSIR is addressing real needs in our community, and those needs include putting our youth on a path toward success. In my opinion as a banker, there is no better investment in the future of our communities than in the education and mentoring of our youth. PSIR is helping our community become healthier and more viable through its wide array of services and programming for young boys and girls." - Irvin Ashford, Jr., Comerica Bank - Senior VP & Texas Market Community Development

"PSIR is a needed program for the City because of its focus on African-American boys and education. We see it as culturally-relevant, with high-quality programming that prepares leaders for the next generation." - Will McCall, President of Dallas Leadership Foundation

"[PSIR has] an uncanny ability to organize students, parents and community leaders and organizations to come together for the purpose of equipping young men with comprehensive leadership and professional skills, while also understanding the importance of coming back and giving back to others in the community." - James Guess, Founder of JBG International Success Academy

"With PSIR - it's an important initiative because without this group of young men - we won't have a complete society. It's an important to build a foundation in a world that's growing in Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics (S.T.E.M.) - we are not at the table. And with PSIR - [it] basically saves us a seat to get to the table. I support it because not only is it the right thing to do - but because it solidifies our future. If we are going to move forward, we need everyone's support." - Arthur L. Gregg, M.Ed, Assistant VP of Multicultural Affairs, University of Texas at Dallas

"I have seen a positive change in my child as a direct result of PSIR programs like the Project Manhood Leadership Institute - to build better character and make him more responsible." - Gloria Walker, Parent of PSIR Program participant

To Whom It May Concern:

Project Still I Rise Inc. is proud to announce the 1st Annual Project Still I Rise Benefit Gala & Charity Auction - an event to benefit Project Still I Rise programs and initiatives on Saturday, October 29, 2011. This event will be held at the University of Texas at Dallas in Richardson, Texas. Beginning at 6:00pm, the benefit gala will kick off with a reception and silent auction, followed by dinner and a program with entertainment. During the program, we will recognize supporters of PSIR and success stories of some of our program recipients.

Established in 2002, PSIR is a Dallas-based nonprofit organization created to effect positive change in the academic and social status of underserved youth and their families. Our vision is to aide generations of young people in becoming proactive leaders in their communities; making a difference in their own lives and in the lives of others.

Project Still I Rise has impacted many lives through generous contributions from corporations, foundations, churches, organizations and individuals throughout Dallas-Fort Worth. Please help us continue to make a difference via your tax-deductible sponsorship and support of PSIR. Let's make this a night to remember by investing in the education and cultivation of tomorrow's leaders.

Please find the gala benefit sponsorship opportunities outlined in detail at http://www.psir.org/benefitsponsorship_levels.html. Thank you in advance for your consideration. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact us at 972.546.0977.
